Agreement for Service / Informed Consent

This agreement has been created for the purpose of outlining the terms and conditions of services to be provided by Therapist for _____ (herein “Client”) and is intended to provide important information regarding practices, policies and procedures of Therapist, and to clarify the terms of the professional therapeutic relationship between Therapist and Client.

Psychotherapy is a process that involves the Therapist, the Client, and sometimes other family members as well. During the process, a myriad of issues, events, experiences and memories are explored for the purpose of creating positive change so Client can experience life more fully. It provides an opportunity to better, and more deeply understand oneself, as well as any problems or difficulties client may be experiencing. Psychotherapy is a joint effort between the Client and Therapist that requires an active participation in the therapeutic process, honesty, and a willingness to take in feedback on the part of the client.

Benefits and Risks of Therapy: Since therapy often involves discussing many aspects of Client's life (both positive and negative), Client may experience uncomfortable feelings, which can be difficult. However, psychotherapy has been shown to have many benefits. Therapy often leads to better relationships, solutions to specific problems, and significant reductions in feelings of distress. There is no guarantee that you will experience all of these benefits. You are encouraged to address any concerns you have about your treatment with your therapist.

Privacy and Release of Information

The information disclosed by the Client is generally confidential and will not be released to any third party without written authorization from Client, except where required or permitted by law listed below:

- Threats of harm to yourself or others
- Abuse of a vulnerable adult, child, or developmentally disabled person
- A court order to release information
- Subpoena of treatment records by an attorney. If you do not want this information released, you must obtain a protective order from the court within fourteen days of the request.
- If you will be submitting a claim to your health insurance, we may be required to prove information to your health plan, including some or all of your record of treatment, in order for your carrier to pay for services. By signing this form, you consent to release this information to your health plan.
- If you are involved in a child custody litigation at any time in the future, the court may order release of information about your treatment

In circumstances other than these, I will not release information about your treatment without your authorization.

Under certain circumstances where seeing the record may put a patient or other person at risk, I may redact certain information in the record and/or require that you review the record in consultation with another healthcare provider.
